Dear Lucy,

We read the recently published Ofsted report for Blakesley C of E Primary School with great interest and note that the school requires improvement. The report indicates which aspects of the school's provision and outcomes require improvement, but it also acknowledges that you have already started to take some robust and rigorous actions to bring about rapid improvements. We also know that you are an outward looking headteacher who embraces partnership working.

Whilst there is much to be done, the detail in the text of this report gives us every confidence that you can lead this school to "good" in the not too distant future.

Yours sincerely
